

Responding to COVID-19

Dear Valued Customers and Partners,

For over 26 years CompassCom has been providing geospatial data and real-time GPS tracking solutions supporting our clients and communities for their response, recovery and mitigation for natural disasters and major events. You should be confident that CompassCom is on call to support our global community to battle this unprecedented pandemic. With our years of experience working around the globe, we excel at working in remote development utilizing our established IT systems and processes to guarantee continued operation and support for our products and services. We are monitoring the US Center of Disease Control (CDC) and the World Health Organization (WHO) to follow the guidance of government and public health officials to protect our staff, clients and the partners we support.

We offer a Thumbs Up to the health care professionals, first responders, local communities, governments, transportation and service workers that are the backbone of this response to COVID-19. Our hearts and thoughts go out to the people on the front line and those that have been affected by this virus. Although the duration of this event is uncertain, we do not accept the media term of “The New Normal”. With support of government and industry, our health care and emergency management professionals will lead us through this response to limit the impact as we move to recovery. With lessons learned we will all work together to reduce the possibility of such events in the future. Nothing about this event will be normal.

Our staff are working remote and we have put processes in place to support safe operations for customer support, system installation, software enhancements, providing GIS centric common operational picture and hardware delivery per CDC and WHO guidelines. Our commercial off-the-shelf software supports our clients immediate need to enhance command and control for response to this global pandemic. Our solutions support operations from home or any location via a live internet connection with secure password access. CompassCom is now offering current clients 3-month free licenses for expanding mobile assets and user clients from your CompassTrac (on-premise) or CompassWorks (managed cloud) systems. We will continue to upgrade our maintenance clients with our latest release of v7.5. We will support installation and upgrades to new clients to provide GIS centric GPS tracking to empower your response mission. Contact us at 303-680-3311 or by email at solutions@compasscom.com

This war is a fight for our health, global community, and economic future.

CompassCom is committed to this battle and will support any client, government agency and industry to sustain our global safety, health and well-being. If you have a need or idea on how we can help TODAY, contact us and we will provide our products and service NOW and figure out future business details as time allows.

Our hearts and business are open, and we look forward to winning this war and a better future ahead. We're in it together. #inittogether
